

School Building Committee Outreach Committee

Hartwell Multipurpose Room

February 28, 2019

Present: Kim Bodnar, Jennifer Glass and Gina Halsted

Also in attendance: Mimi Borden and Andy Payne

The meeting commenced at 10:18 am

Discussion of next blogs: Jennifer Glass began by sharing the many images of the school's interior and exterior design that had been presented by the design team at the previous night's SBC Meeting. Since there were so many new pictures, Andy Payne suggested that the March 3rd Blog contain lots of images pictures with little narrative. The committee agreed to show:

- Two images showing the different options for sun screening on the front elevation of the Learning Commons
- The image of the interior "Gallery" of the Reed Connector
- Interior images of the Learning Commons
- The updated site plan

Mr. Payne suggested the title "A Picture is worth a Thousand Words".

Kim Bodnar suggested mentioning that the design continues to evolve and is an iterative process.

Ms. Glass shared that she'd updated the web site with the new design images.

Discussion moved to the March 10 blog. Craig Nicholson had sent a link to the Final Report of the Boston Architecture School. The committee agreed that the March 10 Blog could feature highlights from that report. The blog will also contain the agenda for the March 13th SBC meeting.

Ms. Bodnar asked if the Fincom bonding and updated tax information should be shared through channels such as the Lincoln Journal. Ms. Glass replied that every resident will be receiving the Board of Selectmen's letter, which will have full information about the upcoming tax increase. The Town Meeting, she reminded the committee, will be another opportunity for communications.

The meeting adjourned at 11:00am.

Minutes respectfully submitted by Gina Halsted
