Blog Posts:

March 14: The committee discussed the upcoming blog. With Pi Day (March 14) approaching, circle themes seemed appropriate. Ideas included pictures of circles and the use of pie charts were discussed.

The committee discussed ways to explain the transition between phases of the project. Andy Payne wondered when the last review of the project schedule was published. He suggested including a message that the project is on track for "back to school" in the fall with students starting in the renovated Middle School. Jennifer Glass proposed sharing the matrix that shows where each grade will be located each year of the project. Ms. Glass thought it might be fun to ask readers to share their favorite school meal. The committee decided that the post will focus on the message that we are in the home stretch and getting ready to welcome students in the fall.

March 21 & 28 & April 4th: The committee agreed to skip these blog posts.

April 11th: The April 11th blog will contain details about the April 14th SBC meeting.
